The MAILING DATE of this communication appears on the cover sheet with the correspondence address Period for Reply
A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 1 MONTH(S) OR THIRTY (30) DAYS, WHICHEVER IS LONGER, FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION. - Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication. - If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication. - Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

Election/Restrictions

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 34-35, drawn to methods of enabling vaccination of a patient against infectious diseases, classified in class 424, subclass 281.1.
- II. Claim 36, drawn to method of enabling hookworm vaccination, classified in class424, subclass 278.1.
- III. Claims 98-102 and 133-134, drawn to compositions comprising a cocktail of hookworm antigens, classified in class 424, subclass 265.1.
- IV. Claims 103-109 and 135, drawn to methods of vaccinating or eliciting an immune response to hookworm in a mammal utilizing a composition comprising a recombinant or synthetic antigen from hookworm, classified in class 424, subclass 265.1.
- V. Claims 110-116 and 136, drawn to methods of reducing blood loss in a patient infected with hookworm utilizing a composition comprising a recombinant or synthetic antigen from hookworm, classified in class 424, subclass 265.1.
- VI. Claim117-123 and 137, drawn to methods of reducing hookworm size, quantitative egg count or hookworm burden in a patient infected with hookworm utilizing a composition comprising a recombinant or synthetic antigen from hookworm, classified in class 424, subclass 265.1.

VII. Claims 124-130, drawn to methods of decreasing L3 migration across the skin of a mammal utilizing a composition comprising a recombinant or synthetic antigen from hookworm, classified in class 424, subclass 265.1.

- VIII. Claim 131, drawn to a nucleotide sequence represented by SEQ ID NO:76, classified in class 536, subclass 23.1.
- IX. Claim 132, drawn to an amino acid sequence represented by SEQ ID NO:77, classified in class 530, subclass 350.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions III and VIII-IX are separate and distinct from each other, as they comprise differing biochemical and immunological entities having differing properties and uses.

Inventions III and IX each invention constitutes a patentably distinct antigenic composition while Invention VIII is drawn to a nucleic acid.

Inventions I-II and IV-VII are each separate and distinct from each other as they are drawn to differing methods having different steps, different goals and leading to differing results.

Inventions III and IX are each related to Inventions I-II and IV-VII as product and process of use. The inventions can be shown to be distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) the process for using the product as claimed can be practiced with another materially different product or (2) the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process of using that product (MPEP § 806.05(h)). In the instant case the antigens of Inventions III and IX can be used for antibody production or in diagnostic assays.

Invention VIII is separate and distinct from Inventions I-II and IV-VII, as the compositions of Invention VIII cannot be used in the methods of Invention I-II and IV-VII.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and the search required for the various groups would not be coextensive in scope, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).

The examiner has required restriction between product and process claims. Where applicant elects claims directed to the product, and a product claim is subsequently found allowable, withdrawn process claims that depend from or otherwise include all the limitations of the allowable product claim will be rejoined in accordance with the provisions of MPEP § 821.04. Process claims that depend from or otherwise include all the limitations of the patentable product will be entered as a matter of right if the amendment is presented prior to final rejection or allowance, whichever is earlier. Amendments submitted after final rejection are governed by 37 CFR 1.116; amendments submitted after allowance are governed by 37 CFR 1.312.

In the event of rejoinder, the requirement for restriction between the product claims and the rejoined process claims will be withdrawn, and the rejoined process claims will be fully examined for patentability in accordance with 37 CFR 1.104. Thus, to be allowable, the rejoined claims must meet all criteria for patentability including the requirements of 35 U.S.C. 101, 102, 103, and 112. Until an elected product claim is found allowable, an otherwise proper restriction requirement between product claims and process claims may be maintained. Withdrawn process claims that are not commensurate in scope with an allowed product claim will not be rejoined. See "Guidance on Treatment of Product and Process Claims in light of In re Ochiai, In re Brouwer and 35 U.S.C. § 103(b)," 1184 O.G. 86 (March 26, 1996). Additionally, in order to retain the right to rejoinder in accordance with the above policy, Applicant is advised that the process claims should be amended during prosecution either to maintain dependency on the product claims or to otherwise include the limitations of the product claims. Failure to do so may result in a loss of the right to rejoinder.

Further, note that the prohibition against double patenting rejections of 35 U.S.C. 121 does not apply where the restriction requirement is withdrawn by the examiner before the patent issues.

See MPEP § 804.01.
